Michael T. Naya, Jr. and the Historical Society

By Abby Donovan and Annabelle Klinder

While we live our daily life not realizing it, history has made an important impact on the way we live today. Michael Naya, a seventeen year old senior with a love of history, has interviewed over ninety people to get more information about various historical events. Michael has been a part of the Kenilworth Historical Society since October of 2018 up to the present day. The Kenilworth Historical Society is a nonprofit organization that was founded in 1974 and has several dozen members. Recently, Michael presented some of his research during The Four Centuries at The Nitschke House. There are several reasons why he does what he does and he answered a few questions about it:

Q: How long have you been interested in history and involved in Kenilworth's historical society?

A: I have been interested in history ever since the first grade. I would read books on the Titanic and other historical events. Ever since then, I have been hooked. I got interested in Kenilworth History in 2017 and became a member of the KHS in October 2018.

Q: Why do you enjoy being involved with the Kenilworth Historical Society?

A: I enjoy being involved with the KHS as it allows me to educate others on the history of Kenilworth and the people who were involved. It allows others to learn that they should be proud of their town and where they come from. It allowed me to learn about my family's past and their involvement in Kenilworth's community.

Q: Why did you start doing what you do now?

A: I started interviewing World War II veterans after interviewing our family friend John Rembish about his service in World War II. After hearing his story, I wanted to learn more and more about those events. It is a fascinating experience to sit down and have a conversation with someone who witnessed history, rather than reading it out of a history book. You can't tell a full story without hearing another perspective and since then I have interviewed over ninety veterans from World War II and do not plan on stopping anytime soon.

Q: What is the importance in history and the stories of the people you have interviewed?

A: I think the importance of history is that we cannot forget the past. Although our past has beautiful and destructive stories, they make us who we are today. As one man said, those who forget the past are condemned to repeat it. I feel that the events of the past should never be repeated and that we should remember our past so we can build a brighter future. Those I have interviewed have left behind a long-lasting legacy in their lives by sharing the tales of the events they witnessed.

Q: Where do you plan on going from here?

A: I plan on attending Kean University and becoming a history teacher. I feel that I can make an impact on future students and hopefully inspire them to learn about the past as I have. I hope that I can make the same impact that my teachers here at David Brearley have made on me.

History has played an important role on how we live our lives. If we did not have this history, there is no telling what we would be today. By preserving history, like Michael is, it reminds us all of how we came to be where we are as well as how to not make the same mistakes as we have in the past. History is a parent to our lives today and it deserves to be preserved and never forgotten. Any person, whether or not they have Michael's passion for history, should put the effort in to preserve the world's history as well as their own. It is what will form our future generations to be better or worse than we are now. Never forget what they lived through for us so we can live the way we live today.

New Teacher Profiles: Señora Khaled and Señor Mejia

By Alexander E. Velasco

As we began the 2019-2020 school year, there were many new additions to the David Brearley staff. The David Brearley language department received two new Spanish teachers this year: Señora Khaled and Señor Mejia.

Both teachers feel very welcomed to our school. "Simply put, I like it! I think there is still more getting to know but overall it's been nice," says Señora Khaled. Señor Mejia says that, "Brearley has welcomed me in a very nice way. I think the school has a very positive environment."

When asked why they wanted to become Spanish teachers, both agreed that it was something they realized at a point in their lives. Señora Khaled explains that she began teaching because to her, Spanish is more than just a language. "I love that it's a culture, a people, something that's living, forever changing. To be able to share that with people and give them a new insight to new perspectives they don't know is a privilege." Señor Mejia spoke of how he was adopted and didn't know a word of English when he came to the United States. "Being adopted by an English speaking family gave me the opportunity to find my way and think, if I can learn English, why can't I teach Spanish?" Both had such powerful and heartfelt reasons for why they want to teach Spanish.

Of course, one does not just become a teacher. One has to go to school to prepare and learn how to teach. Señora Khaled obtained her first Master's in the Art of Teaching at Fairleigh Dickinson University. When she first entered the university, she thought about studying business and law but one thing changed her mind: "I knew I wanted to study abroad more than I knew what I was going to do. I fell in love with being able to study abroad, seeing Latin America, and being a part of Latin America." Being able to study abroad helped her find what she wanted to do. Señora Khaled obtained her second Master's at Montclair University in Educational Leadership. She was even the top graduate in the Spanish department when she received her Bachelor's!

Señor Mejia studied at Kean University, obtaining his Bachelor's in Liberal Arts with a concentration in Spanish. He says, "It was a great place to be for the field I wanted to work in." After getting his Bachelor's, Señor Mejia went on to receive his master's at Rutgers Graduate Schools of Education. "I feel like Rutgers really prepared me in the education part; it taught me to look at education through ethnographic eyes, include a social justice component to our lessons, and really consider what it means to not just teach Spanish but go beyond that." Señor Mejia was also his graduating class's student speaker!

Both agreed that if you're interested in becoming a teacher, there's a passion you need for you to do your job wholeheartedly. You can't fake teaching. It's a calling and you need a support system to help you.

Both teachers have hopes for what they their students can take away from their classes and confidently prepare for life outside of and after high school. Señora Khaled wants to "create and give an awareness that there is more going on than what we think or what we experience. To be able to have a conversation and give them something they would not have known. If I can give my students an understanding or a taste of some of that, I've opened up a new perspective for them." Señor Mejia wants his students, "to be globally competent. I want them to be able to walk out of class and have different perspectives on issues going on. To know that learning a second language can add so many positive things to their life and not think it's just something I'm going to grade."

Let's give the two new members of our World Language department a gran bienvenida (great welcome) to David Brearley.

Instagram/Tech Changes

By Angelina Vicente and Abby Boyars

Today, social media is a part of many teenagers' lives. Because of this, Mr. Ulasevich has created an Instagram for our school which is a great way to provide information for students. He got this idea because he knows some schools that had their own Instagram, and he realized how it benefited them. One of the main reasons Instagram has been useful for students is because it brings makes it easier for them to keep up with school activities, and they can also see students' work. Having Instagram is also a good way to spread school news and bring attention to school fundraisers. This makes students more aware and more likely to participate in these types of events. If you have not done so already, go follow @brearley_bears!

Along with the new Instagram account, many computer and programming classes have been modified to make it easier for students to understand what they are learning. Last year, Mr. Ulasevich rewrote the Web Design 1 curriculum and created entirely new courses for Video Game Design, Introduction to Programming, and Web Design 2. In addition to the adjustments Mr. Ulasevich has made, he is hoping to add a class called AP Computer Science Principles. The class will allow students to partake in "drag and drop mobile application making," which basically means putting pieces of a puzzle together to create a mobile app. Mr. Ulasevich also wants to include some of his classes as a middle school cycle. Not only will coding classes in middle school be beneficial for students, but they will also allow students to be familiar with coding for future classes.

Finally, Mr. Ulasevich has helped to develop technology throughout our school by helping other teachers around the school with learning new ways to incorporate technology into the classroom, as well as helping out with other computer problems. Mr. Ulasevich is trying to persuade teachers to use Google Sites because he personally thinks it's very helpful. It's good to hear that staff members seem to be on board with Mr. Ulasevich's idea. By using the Google platform, sharing and collaborating on ideas will be much easier for everyone. Mr. Ulasevich has made his own Google site with Mrs. Perez which is called, dbpractical.art. On the website, Mr. Ulasevich has organized each of his current classes by color. Each page includes the name of the class and other important information including, projects, videos, notes, and more. This is an excellent tool for students to use if they miss a lesson and need to catch up, need to look back at notes, or even just to check what's been updated. Our staff and students truly appreciate all the hard work Mr. Ulasevich has done and continues doing for David Brearley.

Powderpuff 2019 by Angel Owens and Amalia Perez

Powderpuff has always been a very exciting event at David Brearley, and this year was no different. Everyone loves to go to the games and support their class, in hopes that they win their game. Not only do the students come out and watch the game, but so do a lot of the teachers. Our announcers for this year's game were Mikey Fiermonte, Alex Power, and Melanie Mangano.

The freshmen were very excited to play in their first game of powderpuff, in hopes that they would beat the sophomores. The game started off with the freshmen having an advantage, originally scoring a touchdown before it was taken back because of a penalty. For a while, the game lasted with neither team scoring points. But, in the last few minutes of the game, the sophomores scored a touchdown, winning the game. To celebrate, one of the advisors for the sophomores, Mrs. Pizzano, did a cartwheel. Though the freshman put up a great fight, the sophomores won with a final score of 7-0.

The second game between the upperclassmen was the game that everyone could not wait to see. This game would determine if the senior class would win their fourth and final game and be undefeated. The game started off with the seniors scoring a touchdown within the first few minutes of the game, and they went on to score a total of 8 touchdowns during the entirety of the game. Without a doubt, the seniors won, with a final score of 56-0. For the fourth year in a row, the class of 2020 won Powderpuff, which means that they are the undefeated champs of the school.

Things that Matter By Julady Rocha

Some of you may have heard about Race Matters, an after school club held here at David Brearley. Meeting on the second Tuesday of every month in room 141, Race Matters seeks to bridge the ethnic, cultural, and racial divide in our community through conversation. Beginning four years ago, this club started simply through one question.

Needing to complete an assignment, as the bell rang, Mrs. Marsili quickly told her students she had a question that would only take a minute, "What is it like for young women of color to go to a predominantly white school?" Her students responded to her with, "It's going to take more than a minute." As four of them sat down and discussed their answers, Mrs. Marsili quickly realized the multiple manners in which race affected the daily lives of many students. From only a few students, the group quickly expanded into an entire after school club.

This year, Race Matters added a new addition to the RM family, Conversation

Matters. Conversation Matters will be a video podcast available on the RM's youtube channel and the Brearley Bears IGTV in which various students can publicly discuss issues impacting the world around them. Conversation Matters seeks to reach the largest audience of people willing to learn about the various ideas and opinions that we all have to offer. From women's rights to U.S. legality, Conversation Matters is always looking for new topics to discuss. If you have any ideas feel free to contact Mrs. Marsili in room 141.

We hope to see you at the next meeting, and if you aren't already convinced to come and stop by, remember we always have snacks!!!

Blood Drives Save Lives

By Gianna Sacca

For about eight years now, David Brearley has hosted a blood drive working with The New York Blood Center. At our blood drives, we usually have anywhere from sixty to eighty people donating. Every unit of blood they collect can save up to three lives. In November of 2019, we had seventy-seven donors, collected 38 units of whole blood, and 16 people donated on the ALYX machine, providing 32 units of red blood cells. In total, we collected 70 units of blood here at Brearley, which can save about 200 lives.

Another plus to the blood drive is that if seniors donate twice or, once on an friend donate in your place. If you want to donate at the next drive, you must be 16 years old or older, and 16 year olds need a parent's signature in order to donate. If you are planning on donating, make sure you eat a good meal before, get a good night's sleep, and bring an ID if you have one. Then, after you donate, make sure you eat and drink throughout day because you may feel woozy after. If you wanted to donate at the November blood drive then don't worry—you will have another chance to donate in May!

ALYX machine, they get to wear a red cord with their cap and gown. However, if you can't donate, don't worry—you can have a family member or

David Brearley's Courtyard Compost

By Katia Flosa and Katrina Magtalas

If you haven't noticed yet, David Brearley's AP Environmental students have been keeping compost since the beginning of the school year. So what is compost? What is the reason for this? What are its benefits?

Compost is an organic substance that has been decomposed in the process called composting. Compost takes up to 4 to 6 months for all of the material to break down. The process consists of recycling various organic materials such as waste products. Waste products help the compost by contributing nutrients and bacteria. This can then be used to fertilize soil, which help plants to improve their quality and nutrients.

Why is composting beneficial to the earth? The compost includes microscopic organisms that help break down, cause aeration, and ward off plant disease. It also reduces landfills across the globe, thus improving the air quality that impacts your health and the environment around you.

AP Environmental students bring the following products to their compost bin: banana peels, cardboard, coffee grinds, leaves, twigs, shredded lettuce, egg shells, paper towels, shredded paper, cumpers peels, acorns, and other substances that exclude anything acidic. All of these products must be carbon or nitrogen based. Why not acidic substance? Due to the pH levels in acidic substances they can interfere with break down of the products.

AP Environmental students will be working on their compost until the end of the school year. The class is taking one step further into improving our environment!

College Fair

By Michael Vargulin and Kylie Nazario

David Brearley High School recently hosted its annual college fair with dozens of colleges, in and out of state, in attendance. Including over 60 schools, students were able to explore tons of options ranging from typical universities to military or trade schools. The major goal of the college fair was to encourage juniors and seniors to look into a variety of colleges which may have the majors or similar interests they are looking for. Dozens of representatives from all of the different colleges and schools came together in Brearley to give students as many options as possible and to answer any questions or comments they may have. Working together with the college fair, the guidance department presents itself as a tool for any student who is struggling with the huge choices that come with choosing a college and provide any help they need. Choosing the right college for you is a monumental decision that will affect the rest of your life. Luckily, the college fair expands your options and gives you choices for your future.

Fall Cheerleading

By Alyssa Carew and Sophia Stanziola

As fall comes to an end, the David Brearley cheerleaders say goodbye to another great season. The season started off in the middle of August with the fall cheerleaders having practice every morning for two weeks. In those two weeks, the cheerleaders learned sideline cheers, a pep rally routine, and stunts. They attended every Friday night football game no matter the weather conditions. Though this season was filled with cheer, we are sad because we will miss the senior fall cheerleaders who guided us through everything when we needed them most. This fall we are saying goodbye to Trish Elleston, Juliana Priolo, Emma Hora, Evelyn Wetzels, Riley Burns, Lauren Cantalupo, Brianna Gallagher, Kaitlyn Perdigao, and Alexis Pinto. We wish them nothing but the best in the future!

Football Foul Play

By Mia Rivera

As I am sure you football fans know, there was recently some drama in the NFL. In the first Browns vs. Steelers game of the season, played on 11/14, there was a fight on the field between Myles Garrett and Mason Rudolph. The fight unfolded in the final moments of the Browns 21-7 win over the Steelers. Garrett, from the Browns, tackled Rudolph to the ground after a short pass and both players pulled at each other's helmets. Garrett ripped off Rudolph's helmet and swung it, hitting the top of the quarterback's head. Garrett was found by the NFL to have "violated unnecessary roughness and unsportsmanlike conduct rules, as well as fighting, removing the helmet of an opponent, and using the helmet as a weapon." Garrett has been fined an undisclosed amount of money and has also been suspended at least through the regular season and postseason for his actions.

After the consequences were set, Garrett then came out with an apology statement that said, "Last night, I made a terrible mistake. I lost my cool and what I did was selfish and unacceptable. I know that we are all responsible for our actions and I can only prove my true character through my actions moving forward." He continued, "I want to apologize to Mason Rudolph, my teammates, our entire organization, our fans and to the NFL. I know I have to be accountable for what happened, learn from my mistake and I fully intend to do so." This has led football fans all across America to question whether his punishment was too harsh or just right. After understanding the football players and the brawl they encountered, what do you believe is the best punishment for Garrett?

The End of a Great Season

By Chelsea Cantalupo

The Brearley Bears sadly ended their season on Friday, 11/8, with a loss to Weequahic. The boys played strong, as usual, and hadn't let up a touchdown the entire first half. The Bears were able to take the lead, but eventually Weequahic grasped onto the victory in the end. As all of the seniors' last game had finally ended, it became a pretty emotional finish. Still, we are nothing more than proud for our Bears to end this season 8-2.

When asked about the season, Captain Antonino Principato responded with, "I would definitely describe this season as successful. We all grew as football players and individuals." Star kicker, wide receiver, and safety Captain Peter Siragusa proudly added, "We started the season off with people in new positions and they were trying to adjust to it. As the season progressed, we gained a lot of chemistry and figured out who we were as a team. We were never as strong or as fast as the other teams, but we understood the game and we are about as tough as a team can be." Principato and Siragusa are two of the seniors on the team that helped form a foundation of this team, along with the other upperclassmen.

Junior captain Dan Ramos said, "All of our success came from working hard all week in practice and making each other better each day. Becoming Conference champs was definitely our most memorable accomplishment." Lastly, captain Michael Dotro summed everything up: "What made us so successful was our unity. We really felt together as a team and we had a really great chemistry. We were also well coached and all had the same goal in mind - to win against Bound Brook and win the conference. Altogether, this was a great season and I'm going to miss this team tremendously." Dotro and Ramos still have another year left on this team and we wish them the best of luck next year in their 2020 season!

Brearley Boys Soccer Roundup

By Benjamin Shapiro

The David Brearley Boys Soccer team had a phenomenal season in 2019. Led by Coach Vincent McGowan, the Brearley Bears went on a tear in the postseason until they were finally defeated on penalty kicks by Technology High School of Newark. Nonetheless, we at the Bear Print are very proud of our boys in blue, and invite you to take a look back at their tremendous season.

Simply put, nobody could have predicted how well the boys would do this season, and after a 2-1 loss away at rivals Roselle Park, things were beginning to look grim. However, if there is one lesson to be learned off the back of that defeat, it is that no one should ever doubt the tactical brilliance of Coach McGowan. The Bears bounced back with three wins on the trot: 6-0 at home against Roselle Catholic, 9-1 at home against Mets Charter, and a dramatic 2-1 win away at Union Catholic thanks to a bicycle kick from Tyler Pires and an overtime free-kick from Andy Morales. The Bears were officially on a roll.

Alas, the funny thing about rolls is that they need momentum to keep on rolling, and Rahway decided to put a stop to that momentum when they came from behind to defeat the Bears 3-2 at home. However, the Bears did not let the loss get to them. The boys proceeded to beat Hillside 3-0 away and Roselle 1-0 at home. The next match was an opportunity for revenge against rivals Roselle Park at home, but the game ended in a 2-2 draw, even after a heartfelt display from the Bears. The next games were an 8-2 victory against Roselle Catholic away and a 7-0 win against East Brunswick Tech at home. Now it was time for the Union County Tournament.

The Brearley Boys got a tough draw in the Union County Tournament as they had to face Cranford, a much bigger school. Our boys fought valiantly, but Cranford came from behind to beat the Bears 2-1 away, thus knocking our Bears out of the Union County Tournament in the first round. Our Bears kept their eyes on the prize however, and followed the defeat up with two stunning wins—the first against Johnson 2-1 away, and the second against Union Catholic 4-1 at home on senior night. The final three conference games were a 1-0 defeat away against Rahway, a 4-1 win at home against Hillside, and a 2-0 win away against Roselle.

The David Brearley Boys Soccer team ended regular season play with an 11-4-1 record. All in all, it was a fantastic regular season, and the team qualified for the state championship tournament. Thanks to our boys' phenomenal play over the course of the season, David Brearley High School obtained the 2nd seed in the North 2 Group 1 bracket of Sectionals. In the round of sixteen, Brearley defeated 15th seed Palisades Park at home by a score of 4-0. Next, Brearley travelled to 7th seed Becton for the quarter-finals, where our boys won 3-0. Finally, the boys met their match against 3rd seed Technology at home. The score was 1-1 after double overtime, and in the end the Bears lost 5-3 on penalty kicks.

It was a tough end to what was otherwise a fantastic season. The Bear Print would like to give a special shout out to the six seniors on the team this year: Trevor Strigler, Tyler Pires, Igor Santos, Chris Vargas, Andy Morales, and Benjamin Shapiro. You did your best and gave it all for the team. We wish all of you luck in your future endeavors, whether they involve soccer or not. Well done Bears!

The Joker Controversy

By Arianna Ascue

Many movies come out each year, but one movie in particular has caused some controversy. This movie is considered by many to be one of the best that was released in 2019. As everyone has noticed throughout media, The Joker has been a topic of conversation even before its release. Multiple news outlets and viewers have called this movie too controversial and believe it may cause problems in our society.

If you haven't seen the movie yet, it is set in New York City. Actor Joaquin Phoenix, the title character, portrays a mentally ill man who cannot afford proper medical assistance for his mother or himself. The movie creates a world not so different from our own that shows that people with mental illness aren't being taken care of and are being treated terribly by some people.

I personally think that people are taking this movie way out of context. On some media outlets, we are told that this movie will begin to cause outbreaks of violence. Because of this, many say that the movie should not have been released. In an interview with Joaquin Phoenix, he describes the feeling of making the movie as being uncomfortable but yet enjoyable. He says it was another way to look at a different perspective on how people with mental illness see the world; this provides the other point of view most of us don't like to see. I believe that this movie was NEEDED for today's audiences to show what we need to improve on, such as more government funding to help people with mental illness and the opportunity to see others' perspectives in our society.

New Apple/iOS Products

By Amanda Jankiewicz

In recent months, Apple has released many new products. From phones, to cases, to airpods, Apple has definitely been making a profit recently. The newest release on apple.com is the AirPods Pro. For $249, you can get noise canceling, discrete earphones. The old AirPods are still for sale at $160, and in my opinion are the better deal for what you get.

A few months back, Apple also released multiple new iPhones - the iPhone 11 pro, which comes in two sizes, and the iPhone 11. What makes these two phones different is mostly the cameras and the sizes. Other than little software and bug-fix differences, the internal makeup of the phones is pretty much the same. The regular iPhone 11 starts at $699 or with a trade-in of another iPhone is $399. The iPhone 11 Pro starts at $999 or $599 with a trade in of another iPhone. The iPhone 11 Pro Max starts at $1099 or $600 if you trade in another iPhone. With the release of these new iPhones, Apple also released new cases. Although they already had silicone cases for their previous models of iPhones, they made new ones with different colors and they now fit the newest iPhones. The classic silicone cases start at $39.

Apple is known to have very a reliable laptop, known as the MacBook, and new MacBooks were released at the same time as the new iPhones. The three MacBooks that they updated and made better than they have ever before are the MacBook Air 13.3", the MacBook Pro 13.3", and the MacBook Pro 16". In my opinion, these are the best laptops on the market. The MacBook Air starts at $1099, the MacBook Pro 13.3" at $1299, and the MacBook Pro 16" at $2399. If you are looking for a new laptop, I would definitely invest in a type of MacBook.

Overall, Apple has released many new and reliable products in the last few months. It is no doubt that as a whole company, Apple has been doing very well recently and they have been making a profit.
